

FROM PEGGY TO POLLY.

Dearest Polly:

And another week has rolled by. Another week of this detestable warm weather. And, socially, there has been really very little doing. Of course there was the Jones Calico Ball on Monday evening, which started off the week in a jolly way, but Tuesday took a number of the other folks off to Kaula on house parties. Peggy Center, the Carters, the von Holts, Alice Cooke, Harriet Hatch and the Swans and Betty Case are among the girls who left in the Kinau, so you see there are just a few left. But I suppose, instead of complaining, everyone should be thankful for the rest.

I want to tell you a joke on one of the girls here in town who thought she had snubbed a man deliciously. It was out at Helme's and a party occupied a table next to the one at which a well-known girl sat leisurely sipping at lemonade with a number of young folks. A young man (the girl knew quite well who he was) tried to speak to her but her eyes swiftly avoided his gaze. He had told a number in the crowd that he would introduce them, so to draw her attention, he raised his voice in speaking of an incident with which he knew she was familiar. The girl quickly turned her head but did not acknowledge the gentleman's cordial bow.

"I thought you knew her," said one of the ladies in the party.

"I do," replied the gentleman, "but she's near-sighted."

It happens that the girl had forgotten that he had been introduced, but nobody knew that. Speaking of introductions and names and things, there is a delightful couple staying at the Manoa. They are Mr. and Mrs. Colver from Brookline, Mass. In being told the other evening that no one could forget his name he repeated this incident. There was a gentleman who simply could not remember Mr. Colver's name, so he told the man to think of Collier's Magazine and he could easily recall it though it is not spelled in exactly the same manner. The man thought it a great idea and in a very few weeks the two passed on a street corner. The man extended his hand with a cordial "How-do-do," Mr. Colver.

There is quite an important young woman here in town who will be married this month. Now, should I put it just that way? Of course I mean she is important socially. The wedding awaits the last decree of her divorce to be granted. Though it will be very quiet it is causing quite a stir in the inner circle. She is a very beautiful and brilliant woman and I wish I might tell you her name, for though she is not of Honolulu, she is very well-known here.

Marcus Monsarrat leaves to resume his studies at West Point on Tuesday in the Mongolia. He has little time to enjoy the summer, but he declares that it is quite good enough to get home for a minute. He has two more years at the academy before "Lieutenant" is posted up before his name.

Honolulu, or rather, Younger Honolulu, is quietly looking forward to the training ship which will bring the midshipmen from Annapolis. There are a number of the young men who are known to Honolulu, and who have friends and relatives here. There will probably be a number of entertainments in their honor. San Francisco is holding its annual Navy Relief ball at the time they will be in that city. That, I think, will be a pleasant experience for them.

Did you know that Harrison Fisher, the famous artist, is in Honolulu? He is at Bohon Grove willing away the time along with a number of other artists. That is in San Mateo and you know California is not so very far from Honolulu. Perhaps the man who is so famous for his pretty girl types will remember some of his father's alluring stories of Hawaii and come here. That, of course, is a sort of fancy, but who knows? Hugo Fisher, the Bohemian landscape artist and father of Harrison, believes Honolulu is an ideal place, and though he has not been here for over six years the fancy may strike him again.

Miss Orpha Starratt left in the transport on Wednesday en route to Chicago where she will be married to Mr. Albert Hall the end of the month.

Music-lovers are looking forward to hearing Madame Melba, to whom they have listened time and again through the medium of a Victrola. They can hardly realize that the wonderful bird-like notes which have so long come through a horn will issue from the lips of a real woman. There's a woman who stands at the summit of fame.

No more news until next week.

SCHOFIELD SOCIETY

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
FORT SHAFTER, Aug. 6.—The delightful hop supper given by Major and Mrs. George Bailey and Miss Anne Carpenter, which took place on Tuesday evening before the hop in the 1st Infantry pavilion, was the largest affair of the week and most successfully carried out in every detail. As the guests arrived they were given slips of paper upon which were numbers, each lady's corresponding to the same number held by one of the gentlemen—in this novel manner was determined the couples sitting together for supper, which was served in buffet style, the delicious dishes being much enjoyed. Through the lower rooms of the hospitable Bailey quarters many vases of fragrant flowers placed in mantels and tables lent a pleasing air of festivity, while on the broad banals were hung ropes of Japanese lanterns, under whose soft light many guests were seated during supper. Among those present were Colonel and Mrs. L. W. V. Kennon, Major Julius Penn, Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carey, Capt. and Mrs. Frank Burnett, Capt. Harry Williams, Lieut. and Mrs. John Hinemon, Lieut. and Mrs. George Harris, Lieut. and Mrs. Franklin Rice, Capt. and Mrs. Joseph Janda, Dr. Leo Mudd, Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph Topham, Lieut. Charles Little, Lieut. Halg Shekergian, Dr. and Mrs. Neal Wood, Lieut. and Mrs. Harold Vandever, Mr. John Macaulay, Mr. Clark Fales, Lieut. James Uilo, Lieut. William McCulloch, Captain and Mrs. Pelham Glassford, Miss Nellie Carleton, Misses Constance and Welcome Ayer, Ruth Barclay, Dorothy Forsyth, Carrie and Esther McMahon, Irene Farrell, Lieut. and Mrs. Jesse Ladd, Lieut. V. C. Emyart, William Dorman, Lieut. and Mrs. Robert Harold, Capt. and Mrs. Chalmers Hall, Miss Norma Mason, Lieut. Wallace Phibson, Capt. and Mrs. American Mitchell, Miss Laura Williams, Lieut. Walter Winton, Lieut. Freeman Bowley, Lieut. Oswald Saunders, Lieut. and Mrs. Livingston Watrous, Miss Mary Marshall, Miss Katherine Lennihan and Lieut. Lindsay, Silvester and Coleman Jenkins. After supper the evening was most enjoyably spent in dancing in the open air in the pavilion.

Capt. and Mrs. Clyde Crusan on Monday evening entertained in a charming manner in honor of Miss Laura Williams of Chicago, who is visiting Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carey of the 1st Infantry. The affair was in the nature of a musicale, which consisted of a program of delightful numbers, both vocal and instrumental. Miss Williams is the possessor of a voice of powerful and pleasing quality and is an addition to the musical coterie of Schofield Barracks. Mrs. David Stone and Mrs. Waldo Potter each gave a number of solos, their voices giving as always the greatest pleasure to their hearers. Miss Anna Bell Farrington, house-guest of Capt. and Mrs. David Stone, is a pianist of marked ability, whose performance contributed much to the success of the program. Mrs. Meals' piano numbers were appreciated more perhaps because of this being her last performance in the post. Mrs. Meals and Lieutenant Meals sailed on the Logan on Wednesday. Lieut. Ganoe and Mrs. Crusan also sang a number of attractive selections. At the close of the evening a delicious supper was served.

Miss Roseanna McCleave celebrated her fifth birthday on Monday, a number of the small friends being invited in to help her enjoy the occasion. The lawn in front of the McCleave quarters was gay with "party" clothes of the little tots for the late afternoon hours, and all greatly enjoyed the games played and the fascinating refreshments afterward. At the time to say good-by, each child was presented with a candy basket filled with candies and nuts, delighting the recipients and concluding for them a very happy afternoon. Among those present were Betty and Laura Lee Naylor, Harold Browning, Valerie Chitty, Elizabeth, Pelham and Dorothy Glassford, George Gay, and Betty and Eleanor Jones.

A number of the young people of the post left on the transport this week. Miss Constance Ayer, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Waldo Ayer, goes back to resume her studies at Berkeley. Mr. Clark Fales, son of Capt. and Mrs. Henry Fales of the 1st Infantry, returns to West Point for his remaining two years in the corps of cadets. Lieut. Harold Huntley of the 1st Field Artillery goes on a two months' leave, as does Lieut. Charles Everett of the 1st Infantry, who was accompanied by Mrs. Everett. Dr. Edwin Kennedy goes to San Francisco to take examination for promotion.

Major William S. Guernard was a dinner host on Tuesday evening, entertaining for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dillingham and Mr. and Mrs. Gaylor of Honolulu. Red ixoras and silken candle shades of the same tint gave a pretty touch of color on the dinner table at which covers were placed for ten, including Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylor, Capt. and Mrs. Campbell King, Lieut. and Mrs. Louie Beard, Lieut. Kenny Palmer and Major Guernard. This party later also attended the 1st Infantry hop at Castner.

Last Friday Capt. and Mrs. Edward Carey gave a dinner of six covers, which was followed by an enjoyable party at the movies. Pink and white flowers attractively decorated the dinner table, the pink note of which was echoed in the dainty shades on the candelabra. Present were Captain and Mrs. Frank C. Burnett, Miss Laura Williams, Lieut. James Uilo, and Capt. and Mrs. Carey.

Mrs. Ivens Jones on Tuesday entertained delightfully at luncheon for eight ladies, who were Mesdames Charles McAlis, Walter Potter, Charles Willard, Livingston Watrous, George Harrison, Clarence Day and Miss Hazel Harrison.

Miss Nellie Carleton left on the Logan on Wednesday, after a two months' visit with her sister and brother-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. Pelham Glassford.

Miss Carleton will be in San Francisco for a few days, staying with Col. and Mrs. William A. Glassford at 2800 Van Ness avenue, after which she will join her parents, Col. and Mrs. Guy Carleton, in Galveston, Texas.

On Sunday last Capt. and Mrs. Pelham Glassford gave an informal beach supper at Haliwa, after a swim in the invigorating waters of Haliwa bay. Present were Miss Nellie Carleton, Lieut. Seth Schofield, Wallace Hall and Capt. and Mrs. Glassford.

Miss Gertrude Hopkins was the motive for the large dinner on Tuesday at the Moana hotel with Mrs. W. W. Freeman as hostess. This was in the nature of a farewell, as Miss Hopkins sailed on the Logan the next day with her father and mother, Capt. and Mrs. Frank Hopkins.

Captain and Mrs. Arthur Cassels entertained at dinner on Wednesday for Col. and Mrs. L. W. V. Kennon and Capt. and Mrs. William Chitty, all of whom later appeared at the Mounted Service Club hop.

Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph Daly and Mrs. Henry Lantry have returned to the post after two months spent in the eastern part of the states.

FT. SHAFTER SOCIETY

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
FORT SHAFTER, Aug. 6.—There was a very jolly crowd present at the Monday night bridge meeting at the officers' club and the evening was most pleasantly spent. There were four tables, and Mrs. L. O. Mathews acted as hostess for the evening. Those playing were: Captain and Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Mathews, Lieut. and Mrs. Greene, Lieut. and Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Jamerson, Capt. and Mrs. Barker, Capt. and Mrs. Lincoln, Capt. and Mrs. Cochran, and Mrs. Malone. The prize, a beautiful beaten bronze vase, was awarded Mrs. Lincoln.

On Wednesday evening Company F turned their barracks into one large hop room and, with the assistance of Colonel and Mrs. French, Capt. and Mrs. Lincoln, Lieut. Fredendick, and Lieut. and Mrs. Spiano gave a dance to the members of the fair sex from Honolulu that will go down in the memory of every member of the company as the biggest success they ever attended. The large barracks were decorated with flags and palms and, with the perfect dance music furnished by the regimental orchestra, all were happy until the strains of "Home Sweet Home" told them that the day was past.

Quarters are being renovated in the cantonment and being made into real little dove cotes for the returning brides and grooms—Lieut. and Mrs. Calder and Lieut. and Mrs. Harbigs. Word has been received to the effect that they are passengers on the transport due to reach Honolulu about the 12th.

Lieut. and Mrs. Calder will occupy the set now occupied by Lieut. Silvester and the Harbigs will probably move into the quarters now occupied by Dr. Delber and Lieut. Polhemus. These officers will most likely take up their abode in the newly constructed bachelor flats.

Lieut. and Mrs. Longanecker, who were departing passengers on the U. S. T. Logan for the states, have been feted by their old regimental acquaintances during the last few days of their stay in the post. On Tuesday Lieut. and Mrs. L. O. Mathews entertained at dinner for them and on Wednesday Lieut. and Mrs. J. A. McAndrew gave them a beautiful luncheon. Lieut. and Mrs. Longanecker have been in the regiment for nine years, and many were sad at their separation from the old 2nd.

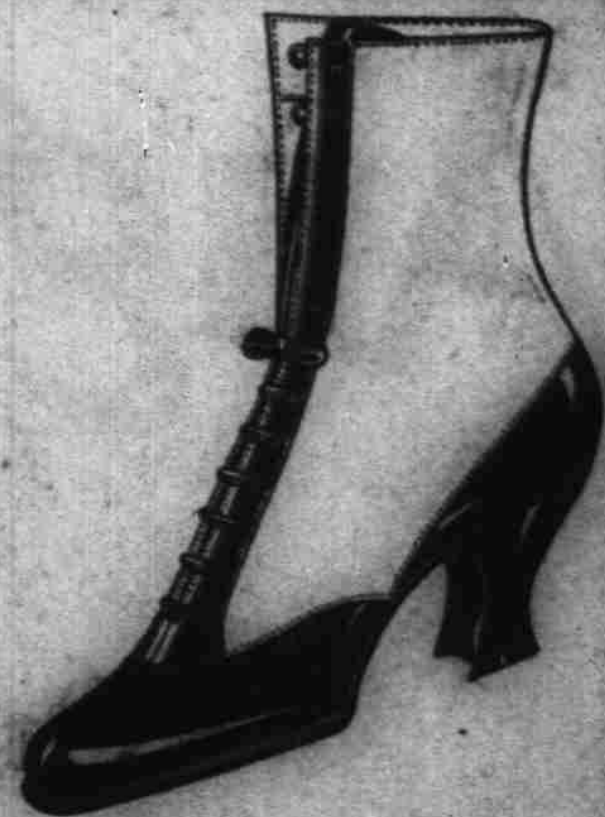

Socially, Fort Shafter lost many very popular couples on the transport leaving last Wednesday. Among those leaving were Major and Mrs. Hanum, Lieut. and Mrs. Matheson, Capt. and Mrs. Johnson, Lieut. and Mrs. Longanecker, and Capt. and Mrs. Gibbs.

Quite a number from the post turned out to bid them adieu, and the Infantry Band under Chief Jacobson was present to give them a martial send-off.

Lieut. and Mrs. D. T. Greene entertained on Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Colver of Brooklyn, New York, with a dinner party. The color scheme was pink and many baskets of flowers of the pink variety were used on the table and elsewhere to carry out the idea. The guests were Major and Mrs. Michael J. Lennihan, Mr. and Mrs. Colver, and Lieut. Silvester and Miss Katherine Lennihan.

Miss Katherine Lennihan is entertaining this evening with a lawn fete for the many young girls now visiting on the post and who will shortly leave for September school. The guests of honor include Miss Anna Halloran, Miss Gertrude Malone, Miss Elizabeth Robinson, Miss Lucy Webb, Miss Maggie May Richardson, and Miss Marshall of Salt Lake City.

On Tuesday evening Lieut. Silvester, Miss Katherine Lennihan and Miss Ann Halloran motored to Schofield Barracks, where they were entertained at dinner by Miss Carpenter. After dinner all enjoyed the lovely dance given by the officers and ladies of the 1st Infantry.

On Wednesday evening Captain and

Mrs. Cochran entertained with a small but prettily appointed dinner in honor of her house-guest, Miss Lucy Wood of Alexandria, Virginia.

Lieut. and Mrs. Douglas T. Greene entertained on Tuesday evening at dinner for Major and Mrs. Lennihan.

LITTLE COAT POPULAR

A dressy finish to any costume is a cunning little coat of silk which can be worn with any frock.

For a very dressy occasion, which so often happens during the summer season, there is the coat of wide Valenciennes lace, sleeve finished at wrist with a deep ruffle of the lace, which falls over the hand, to be worn over a handsome lingerie frock, which is also trimmed very elaborately with the Valenciennes lace.

The Last Week Of This Startling Opportunity

Hundreds took advantage of the many worth while reductions last week—and many hundreds will be after these additional offerings.
